
Notes:
APR4754A has a 'limited' view of what a software safety requirement is, hence Company X's processes have been modelled down to a lower level than are specified in the standards so trying to map a big group of activities for company X into a small number of activities in ARP; many to many mapping!
Software development and verification modelled for standard, but not for company X - assumed should focus on scope of what is modelled for company X